100 years ago when Antonio Pasin started Radio Flyer in 1917, his dream was to “bring joy to every boy and every girl.” After a century of bringing smiles to kids of all ages, his vision to be the World’s Most Loved Children’s brand lives on under the leadership of his grandson, Robert Pasin, who is known as the Chief Wagon Officer. Today, Radio Flyer continues their dedication to bringing smiles to children and families around the world and to creating memories that last a lifetime through their product offering. They are committed to building safe, quality products that spark imagination and inspire active play. They are innovating the future, from their well-known wagons, tricycles, scooters, and other ride-ons to battery operated vehicles such as the Tesla Model S for kids. Their products can be found in all major toy retailers including Walmart, Toys “R” Us, Target and Amazon.com. As a brand that consumers grew up with, Radio Flyer is proud to continue to be part of growing families and is dedicated to bringing smiles to children and promoting active play for the next 100 years.
